CRITIC'S CHOICE

Artist and provocateur

"Monsanto Frankenfood Terminator Genes Persecutes Farmers"
[COURTESY OF BOB HIERONIMUS]

FOR MORE THAN THREE decades, painter/author/provocateur/radio personality Bob Hieronimus has been an effusive fixture on Baltimore's arts scene, delighting audiences with everything from his psychedelically decorated VW buses to his 21st Century Radio broadcasts to his expertise on the Beatles, especially their Yellow Submarine period.

Beginning Sept. 9, a retrospective of his work will be on view at the Weinberg Park Heights Jewish Community Center.

The exhibit will include murals, posters and paintings — a retrospective cornucopia from one of the city's most fertile artistic minds.

"I think what makes him so interesting is a combination of the subject matter with the fact that he's always so engaged with what he does," says exhibit curator Claudine Davison.

The exhibit runs through Nov. 4 at the JCC, 5700 Park Heights Ave. A free reception is scheduled for 3 p.m. Sept. 9. "Inside the Yellow Submarine," a multimedia presentation, is set for 7 p.m. Oct. 10; tickets are $3. 410-542-4900, ext. 239 or jcc.org.
